With holiday season approaching, let's learn practical ways to reduce what you send to the landfill and make sustainable choices every day. Join us to explore the six R's of waste reduction—Refuse, Reduce, Reuse, Repurpose, Recycle, and Rot—and discover how Redlands can lead the way to a zero-waste future.

City Sustainability Coordinator Kaitlyn Haberlin and Recycling Coordinator Michael Hynes will outline how Redlands' new Climate Action Plan is tackling solid waste, including expanded yard and kitchen organic collection programs and strategies to help residents and businesses waste less. Christy Cooper of Feel Good Market, will share creative, low-waste ideas for holiday gifting and wrapping, plus tips for avoiding single-use plastics and packaging!

There will also be a raffle, refreshments, and comradery!

You won't want to miss this! Register for this FREE event today and invite your neighbors, friends and family!

This event is part of ANCA's educational series,
Resilient Living: Facing Challenges Together.
